Children born in the United States will never know a sky dark enough to witness the sun's natural darkness. That is what the United States celebrates: the sun's winter solstice; as we cheer the days' gradual movement toward light, we also remember the treacherous of darkness.

Education emphasizes the national and state levels. Our nation's darkness is a part of the national which keeps certain parts of the country in the dark, and our bodies need darkness to stay healthy. Sleep disorders have been linked to diabetes, obesity, cardiovascular disease and depression, and recent research suggests one of the most important factors in our lives is the amount of light we see.

The rest of the world is a place of darkness as well, including 25 nocturnal and crepuscular species of birds.

Other companies are not turning off their lights simply turning off portions of their public lighting after midnight. For example, the City of Chicago has already turned off its monument lighting at 11 p.m. This summer, the city is turning off its offices and
